

The taco and the guacamole went to visit the enchilada

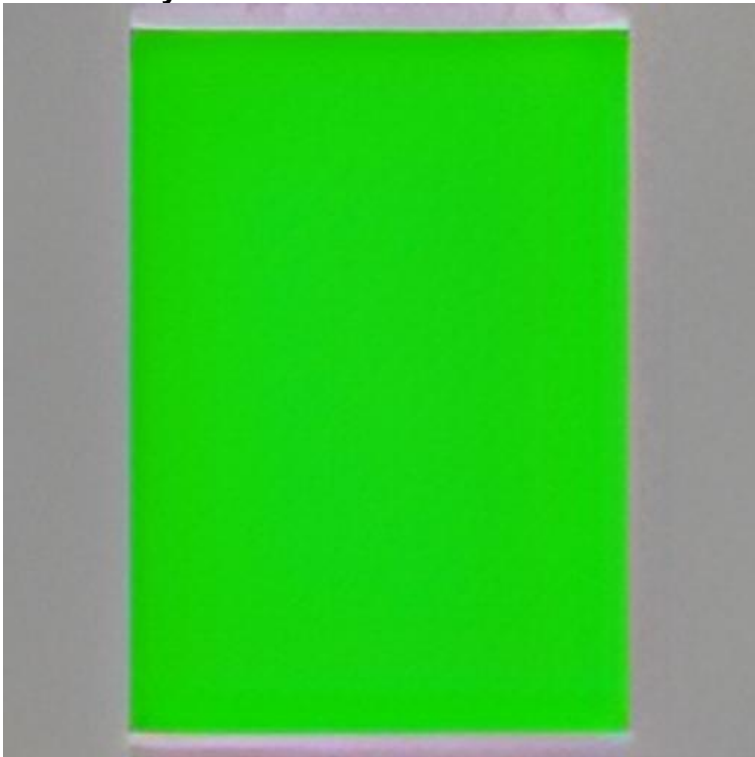

The taco and the guacamole went to visit the enchilada.

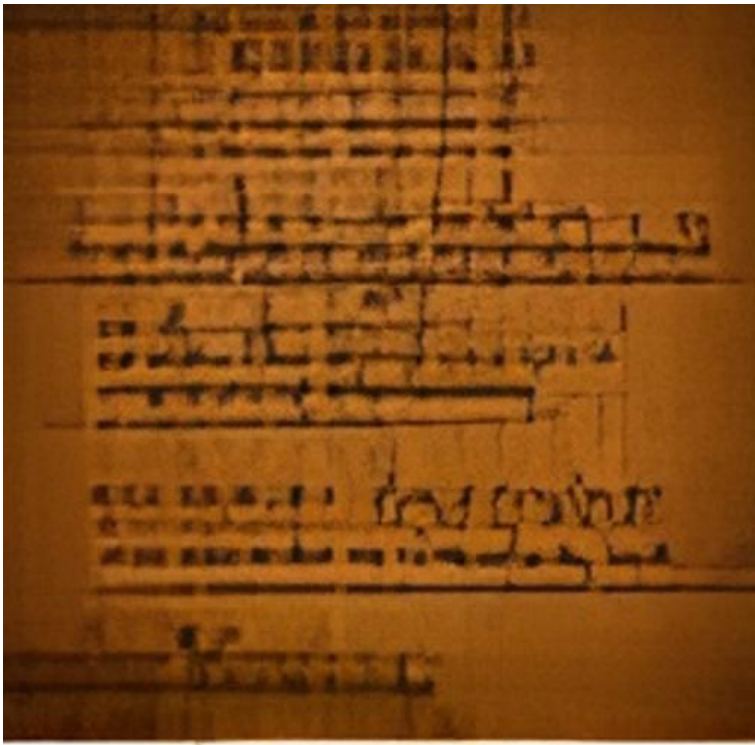

The two friends sat down at a table, with their backs against each other in order for them not be seen by anyone else who might come into view of where they were sitting so that no one would recognize either as having been there before or knowing someone from school whom he/she had gone out on dates previously (in case it was found suspicious).

"What do you want?"

I mean what kind did ya wanna get this time?!

A cheese-filled tortilla shell filled up like an overstuffed burrito stuffed full o' cheesy goodness!

Or maybe some chicken wrapped around your favorite veggie covered inside?with melted jacka cream sauce drizzled all throughout...mmmmmmmmmm....or how about my personal fave: ground beef rolled between corn chips smothered deep within creamy salsa??

MMMM!!

That's right baby girl..that is exactly why we're here today!!!

Ya see me smiling because when i think back upon those days just thinking "man im gonna have something good" always made us smile too.....

but now its different.....we can't remember our last meal together.....

